

ISS Media Policy (February 2015)

Institutional Shareholder Services (ISS) endeavors to assist journalists covering stories of interest to our clients, and more generally to followers of financial markets, by providing, where appropriate, corporate governance data and proxy research information. All requests from the media for ISS data, research or other information should be directed in writing to isspress@issgovernance.com.

While recognizing that our proxy research is for the benefit of our clients and not other constituents, ISS believes it is appropriate to provide select proxy research to media outlets but only upon request (and never in advance of delivery to ISS clients), in instances where we believe the public may benefit from the information and in keeping with ISS' commitment to transparency. Proxy research provided to media outlets must generally contain the same disclaimers and/or qualifications or limitations on use that would apply to the delivery of such research to any third party in the ordinary course. ISS does not issue press releases with respect to its voting recommendations.

Proxy research will not be made available to the media prior to its dissemination to ISS clients, and ISS staff will generally not comment on company-specific situations in advance of a shareholder meeting. When provided, proxy research reports are provided as a courtesy, and ISS reserves the right to withhold the provision of its research and related information for any reason. Select governance, compensation and proxy voting data, including that drawn from Governance QuickScore, ExecComp Analytics, and Voting Analytics, may be made available to accredited journalists via ISS' Data Desk. For details on specific information accessible via the Data Desk, as well as availability of time series data, please contact the ISS Press department.

Any redistribution of ISS research or data is expressly prohibited without the prior written consent of ISS. Permission to copy and reproduce content may be granted by ISS, at its discretion, and by written request only.

ISS reserves the right to interpret and apply this Media Policy as it sees fit, as well as to amend or alter the policy in its discretion.